

DAM BACK HUDSON TO BUILD NEW PIER

Biggest Engineering Feat of Its Kind Ever Attempted to Cost $500,000.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—In the work of increasing the dock facilities of Manhattan Island, the dock department is solving several problems almost as difficult as those faced by the builders of the Panama Canal. The greatest feat of all in connection with the construction of deep water piers at West Forty-six street is the damming of the Hudson river at that point. Dredging operations were at first instituted, and after these had been carried on to the rock bottom, it became necessary to construct a cofferdam to hold back the waters of the river so that the rock might be blasted and removed.

This dam had to be something more capable of resistance than anything of the kind that had gone before, because it literally had to dam the waters of the Hudson. The most modern and ingenious devices that engineering skill has devised are being employed in the construction of this dam.

When the water lying between the dam, when completed, and the upland has been pumped out, this dam will be holding the prodigious weight of the volume of water of the main body of the Hudson. This dam is unusual in the size and the demands on it. No duplicate of the dimensions of this construction has ever been created by engineering processes. It will cost $500,000.

As to the details of the work of construction of the pier, the construction of the largest passenger steamships between Forty-fourth and Forty-eighth streets on the North river, Dock Commissioner Smith says:

"The construction of these piers has involved unique engineering problems of very great interest. The site selected is located over a shelving rock ledge twenty feet below mean low water at a point approximately 130 feet from the present shore line. In order to remove this subaqueous rock it is necessary to uncover it by holding back the waters of the Hudson river by means of a temporary dam. It is possible, also, through dry excavation, to leave a solid pillar of rock to support the pier structure and to provide for smooth, uniform pier walls at the sides of the pier."

Dr. Reeves denied the material charges preferred by his wife, but the court directed that he pay temporary alimony of $5 a week.

SOUNDS DEATHKNELL OF DAZZLING LIGHTS

Corporation Counsel Syme Will Invoke New Regulations If Present Rules Fail.

Declaring two deaths and numerous accidents have resulted from the use of dazzling headlights on motor vehicles, Corporation Counsel Syme today announced his intention, if regulations prohibiting their use are found not stringent enough, to ask the Commissioners to pass additional regulation prohibiting the use of any reflector on any side or headlight in the District.

The new traffic regulations, which are printed in full in The Times, of July 12, will become effective Sunday. Plans are being made by the office of the Corporation Counsel for their strict enforcement.

"The new regulations are simple, reasonable and will be strictly enforced," said Corporation Counsel Syme today. The two most important changes are those prohibiting the parking of vehicles in congested sections and prohibiting blinding headlights. The one prohibiting parking while it causes an undue slight inconvenience, is clearly in the interest of public safety, and in line with what has been done in most of the large cities. The regulation prohibiting dazzling headlights was not drafted until a most careful observation had been made of conditions in the urban and suburban sections.

"It was found that the glaring head and side lights were the most dangerous of all. They are utterly unnecessary anywhere. If the warnings heretofore given had been heeded, the little boy who was killed Sunday would be alive today. If the police would be ordered to enforce the head and side-light regulation with the utmost strictness, the assistant corporation counsel at the office Court will be instructed to ask that the heaviest penalty be imposed following every conviction of its violation. If it is found the regulation is not stringent enough, I shall ask the commissioners within the next week to pass an additional regulation absolutely prohibiting the use of any reflector, whatsoever, on any side or head light in the District of Columbia."

The regulation prohibiting the use of dazzling headlights provides that "it shall be unlawful to use any acetylene or electric headlights, or sidelights, on the streets, avenues, or highways of the District of Columbia, unless the rear reflectors are removed from the same or the front glass either ground or covered with muslin, paper, or other material of sufficient density to prevent the light being blinding or dazzling to persons using the streets."

The parking regulation provides that no vehicle except a commercial vehicle loading or unloading, shall without special permit from the Commissioners, be between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. stand for more than fifteen minutes at any place in the following streets or avenues: Fifteenth street northwest, between Pennsylvania avenue and I street northwest, except the vehicles of the United States Government; Fourteenth street northwest, between Pennsylvania avenue and I street; H street northwest, between Fourteenth street and Madison place; New York avenue northwest, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets; G street northwest, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, and F street, between Seventh and Fourteenth streets.

Occupancy of the public streets in front of the hotels in the congested district by taxicabs is prohibited by this regulation, which is strictly enforced. If the taxicab companies take the question of their right of occupancy of the public streets to the courts, Mr. Syme said today, he is ready to meet the issue.

The center of Vermont avenue, from H to I streets northwest, is designated as a parking place for vehicles. This arrangement is to be effective between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on week days.

Copies of the new traffic regulations are being printed, and will be ready for distribution through the Police Department next week.

PANAMA CANAL IS TO OPEN TOMORROW

Completed Four Months Ahead of Time Limit Estimated
Eight Years Ago.

Completed four months ahead of an estimated time limit made eight years ago, the Panama canal will be thrown open to the world's commerce tomorrow—that is to all vessels under 10,000 tons registry.

Few formalities will mark the "commercial opening" of the giant waterway, officers of the isthmian canal commission said today. They did not even know the hour of the informal ceremonies, when the Government steamer Cristobal will start her ocean-to-ocean journey. The Cristobal is at Colon and will go clear through to Balboa, on the Pacific.

General Goethals, army and navy officers and civilians of the isthmian commission, with newspaper correspondents, will be aboard the Cristobal. Secretary Garrison said today the canal would be available for both merchant marine and war vessels—even of belligerent European powers—if they are under the 10,000-ton limit.

The formal opening of the canal is, of course, suspended until next March, when the President, Cabinet, and Congress members will be present. Beginning tomorrow, Uncle Sam expects to receive his first revenue from the canal after expending millions of dollars. The charge will be $1.25 per registered net ton. Passengers and crews will not be taxed.

Ocean-to-ocean service is planned by several shipping lines. The first pleasure craft to go through probably will be the yacht of Joseph Leiter, which is due at Balboa in a week.

Not, Sleepless Nights

Sure Signs That Your Nerves Need the Help of Warner's Safe Nerve.

Most doctors hesitate to prescribe potions to produce sleep from the fear of habit forming drugs taking effect. That is why a remedy noted for its harmlessness should always be employed. Sleeplessness or insomnia is caused by disordered nerves, and thus restlessness in turn produces "the blues," despondency, fretting, worry, impatience, and excitability. As soon as any of these symptoms appear, Warner's Safe Nerve should be taken according to directions. It is perfectly harmless. To anyone who suffers from loss of sleep, neuralgia, nervous headache, and nervous prostration, or over-indulgence, Warner's Safe Nerve is recommended as a medicine of proven merit. Get it at your druggist, or a free sample will be sent if you write Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 211, Rochester, N. Y.—Adv.
